All manuscripts utilizing data made available through the ZENTRALARCHIV FUER EMPIRISCHE SOZIALFORSCHUNG should acknowledge that fact as well as identify the original collectors of the data.

We kindly ask all users to follow some adaptation of the following statement:

The data utilized in this (publication) were documented and made available by the ZENTRALARCHIV FUER EMPIRISCHE SOZIALFORSCHUNG, Koeln. The data for the 'ISSP' were collected by independent institutions in each country (e.g. The Australian survey was conducted by the RSSS at the Australian National University (J. Kelley, M. Evans, C. Bean)). Neither the original collectors nor the ZENTRALARCHIV bear any responsibility for the analyses or interpretation presented here.

In order to provide funding agencies with essential information about the use of archival resources, and to facilitate the exchange of information about research activities based on the ZENTRALARCHIV's holdings, each user is expected to send two copies of each completed manuscript to the ZENTRALARCHIV.

Introduction

The International Social Survey Program

The International Social Survey Program (ISSP) is a continuing, annual program of cross national collaboration. It brings together pre-existing national, social science projects and coordinates research goals by adding a cross national perspective to the individual, national studies.

ISSP grew out of a bilateral collaboration between the Allgemeinen Bevoelkerungsumfrage der Sozialwissenschaften (ALLBUS) of the Zentrum fuer Umfragen, Methoden, und Analysen (ZUMA) in Mannheim, West Germany and the General Social Survey (GSS) of the National Opinion Research Center (NORC), University of Chicago. Both the ALLBUS and the GSS are replicating, time series studies. The ALLBUS has been conducted biennially since 1980 and the GSS annually (except for 1979 and 1981) since 1982. In 1982 ZUMA and NORC devoted a small segment of questions on job values, important areas of life, abortion, and feminism. Again in 1984 collaboration was carried out, this time on class differences, equality, and the welfare state.

Meanwhile, in late 1983 Social and Community Planning Research (SCPR), London, which was starting a social indicators series (the British Social Attitudes Survey) similar to the GSS and ALLBUS, secured funds from the Nuffield Foundation to sponsor meetings to further international cooperation. A meeting was held in London in June, 1984 with representatives from ZUMA, NORC, SCPR, and the Research School of Social Sciences, Australian National University. This group, soon to be christened the ISSP, agreed to 1) jointly develop topical modules dealing with important areas of social science, 2) this module would be a 15 minute supplement to the regular national surveys (or as a special survey if necessary), 3) include an extensive common core of background variables, and 4) to make the data available to the social science community as soon as possible. Each nation funds its own data collection and bears any costs that it incurred through participation in the cooperative effort.

Since its initial meeting in 1984, ISSP has grown to include nine nations, the original four - Germany, the United States, Great Britain, and Australia, plus Austria, Italy, Ireland, the Netherlands, and Hungary. Other countries are currently applying for membership (Israel, Norway).

ISSP's first theme was the role of government. This covered attitudes towards civil liberties, and law enforcement, education and parenting the economy, and welfare and social equality.

The second theme was social networks and support systems. This consisted of a detailed account of one's contact with various relatives and friends and then a series of questions about where one would turn to for help when faced with various situations such as financial need, minor illness, career advice, and emotional distress. The third module, on social equality, is now being developed. Questions focus on equality of income, wealth, and opportunity. Respondents are asked for their perceptions of the extent of present inequality, explanations for inequality, and support for government programs to reduce inequality. The fourth module (1988) will deal with working women and the family, and fifth (1989) with work and leisure.

In 1990 ISSP will repeat the role of government theme. By replicating substantial parts of earlier modules, ISSP will not only have a cross national but also a time perspective. We will be able to compare nations and test whether similar social science models are valid for different societies. We will also be able to see if there are similar international trends and whether equivalent models of social change hold for different nations.

ISSP brings several new features to the area of cross national research. The collaboration among nations is not sporadic or intermittent but routine and continual. Although the international collaboration carried out by ISSP is more circumscribed than special cross national research projects, ISSP makes cross national research a basic part of the nation's research agenda.

The Australian ISSP Inequality module was part of the fourth round of the Australian National Social Science Survey (NSSS) conducted in 1987-1988. This round was designed by Dr. Jonathan Kelley and M.D.R. Evans. The NSSS is funded by The Research School of Social Sciences Institute of Advanced Studies of the Australian National University. This data was coded by Catherine Moore and prepared by Brian Ross.

The Sample, Data Collection and Response Rate

The data were collected by way of a self-completed mail survey of Australian Citizens aged eighteen and over and competent in the English language. The sample was drawn at random from the national electorate rolls enrolment in compulsory and coverage of the population thus nearly complete.

Procedures to minimize losses, ten days after the initial mail-out all potential respondents were sent a thank-you/reminder letter. Non-respondents were contacted a further two times once with a new questionnaire and once by letter alone for a total of four contacts. Those still not responding are to be contacted by telephone. Respondents were given a telephone number to call toll-free if they had any queries or problems. The survey entered the field in November 1987. Telephone contacts followed up. The data here are for two waves, these are 1574 cases. 89 cases from the telephone follow-up are added; all together there are 1663 completed cases.

Great Britain - GB

The questions for the ISSP '87 are part of the British Social Attitudes. This is the fifth in an annual series of surveys started by SCPR in 1983 and core-funded by the Sainsbury Family Charitable Trusts which ensure the stability and independence of the series.

SCPR's British Social Attitudes series aims to monitor public attitudes to a wide variety of social, economic, political and moral issues during the 1980s and 1990s. Its primary source of data is an hour-long interview survey, with a self-completion supplement, among a probability sample of around 3000 people nationwide.

One of the modules in the British Social Attitudes dataset allows researchers to make cross-national comparisons. In 1984, the Nuffield Foundation gave funds to SCPR so that it could convene a series of meetings with research organisations in other countries carrying out general surveys of social attitudes. From these meetings, a group called the International Social Survey Programme (ISSP) has evolved. Each member undertakes to field annually an agreed self-completion questionnaire, and to abide by the ISSP working principles. Current members are named above. The module for 1987 is 'Social Inequality'. Direct international comparisons on this topic will now be possible.

Roger Jowell, Sharon Wiherspoon & Lindsay Brook, SCPR, 1988, Published by Gower Publishing Company Limited, Croft Road, Aldershot.

The Sample

The survey was designed to yield a representative sample of adults aged 18 or over living in private households in Great Britain. The sample covers England, Wales and all but the highlands and islands of Scotland.

The sample was confined to those living in private households whose addresses were listed in the Electoral registers. In fact, the same registers and the same constituencies, as those drawn for the 1986 BSA survey were used.

The sampling method involved a multi-stage design, with four separate stages of selection:

- I. Selection of parliamentary constituencies The stratification factors used in this survey were:
 - 1. Registrar General's Standard Region,
 - Population density (persons per hectar): over 10, 5 - 10, under 5
 - 3. A ranking by percentage of homes that were owner-occupied
- II. Selection of polling destricts
 III. Selection of addresses
- IV. Selection of individuals.

Fieldwork

The 1987 survey of BSA had two components. The main one was a questionnaire administered by interviewers. The second was a short self-completion supplement for respondents to fill in after the interview. The supplement was either collected by the interviewer or posted by the respondent to one or other of SCPR's Field Offices. If necessary, up to two postal reminders were sent to obtain the self-completion supplement. Interviewing was carried out mainly during March and April 1987; self-completion questionnaires were accepted until early July.

The responses achieved is shown below:

In 1987, two different versions (A and B) of questionnaire were used. There were also two versions of the selfcompletion supplement, reflecting the different topics covered in the main questionnaire. The 1987 International Social Survey Programme (ISSP) module, containing questions on inequality, is in version B of the supplement.

Response rates - Version B and Total Sample:

	Version B		Tot	Total
Addresses	No.	%	No.	%
Issued	2.189		4.379
Total out of scope vacant/ derelict	60		139
Total in scope Interviews achieved	2.129 1.410	100 66.2	4.240 2.847	100 67.1
Self completion questionnaire collected/ sent to office	1.212	56.9	2.493	58.8
Interviews not achieved	719	33.8	1.393	32.9
- Refused - Non contact - Other non-response	519 123 77	24.4 5.8 3.6	1.000 255 138	23.6 6.0 3.3

354 respondents (version A and version B), 12% of those interviewed, failed to return the supplement. 89% of respondents returned version A of the self-completion questionnaire, 86% returned version B.

Since the overall proportion returning a self-completion questionnaire was still fairly high (88%), it was felt that these non-response biases did not warrant corrective weighting of the self-completion questionnaire. Those not returning a self-completion questionnaire are not transferred to the ISSP dataset.

Weighting

The data were weighted to take account of any differences between the number of people listed on the register and those found at the address.

The unweighted sample (the number of persons interviewed) was 2.847 and the weighted sample 2.766. Percentages for the core questions are based on the total sample (2.766 weighted), while those for questions in version A or B are based on the appropriate sub-samples (1.391 and 1.375 weighted, for the interview questionnaire and 1.243 (version A) and 1.181 (version B) for the self-completion questionnaire).

The self-completion questionnaire was not completed by 12% of respondents who where successfully interviewed. To allow for comparisons over time, the answers in the supplement have been re-percentaged on the base of those respondents who returned it.

United States - USA

The ISSP data are part of the General Social Surveys (GSS) carried out by the National Opinion Research Center, University of Chicago (NORC). Principal investigators are Prof. James A. Davis and Prof. Tom W. Smith. The GSS data are collected in a cumulative codebook produced by NORC and distributed by The Roper Center for Public Opinion Research, University of Connecticut. The Project was supported by the National Science Foundation.

The Sample

The survey is an independently drawn sample of English-speaking persons 18 years of age or over, living in non-institutional arrangements within the United States. Full probability sampling with black oversample was employed. The sample is a multi-stage area probability sample to the block or segment level.

The Primary Sampling Units (PSUs) employed are Standard Metropolitan Statistical Areas (SMSAs) or non-metropolitan counties selected in NORC's Master Sample. These SMSAs and counties were stratified by region, age, and race for selection. The units of selection of the second stage were block groups (BGs) and enumeration districts (EDs). These EDs and BGs were stratified according to race and income before selection.

The third stage of selection was that of blocks. The blocks were selected with probabilities proportional to size. In places without block statistics, measures of size for the blocks were obtained by field counting.

1987 Black Oversample

In 1987 The National Science Foundation funded as a separate project an oversample of Blacks on the GSS. An additional sample of lines was drawn from 1980 sample frame (as the regular 1987 GSS cross section was). These households were screened for race and eventually yielded 353 extra Black respondents (279 within the ISSP). When added to the 191 Blacks (138 within the ISSP) who were part of the regular cross section that made a total of 544 Black respondents in 1987 (412 Black respondents within the ISSP).

The variable V108 'sample' is designed to select the races: Whites, (representative) Blacks, (oversampled) Blacks and the Others. The Representative Sample constists of Whites (Code 1), representative Blacks (Code 3) and the Others (Code 4).

Within the ISSP:

Representative sample = 1285 respondents Black oversample = 279 respondents

= 1564 respondents

Weighting

To make the survey a representative cross-section the user can either exclude the black oversample cases in using the sample filter V108 or weighting the file by V107. The weighting variable V107 distinguishes with a factor between Blacks (representative and oversample) on one side and Whites and Others on the other side. The number of cases when using the weighting factor is n=1605.

The ISSP '87 and ISSP '88 were fielded simultanuously, each respondent had to answer both questionnaires.

This project was supported in part by promotion-funds from the Science Research Foundation, by grants from the government ministry for Science and Research and from the government Steiermark.

Fieldwork, Data collection

The field work was carried out by the IFES-Institut/ Vienna.

The Sample

The sample is a three stage stratified person random sample. The sample-points were selected according to the criteria of 'Bundesland' (region) and size of the place. Each sample point was assigned six households, using adresses drawn randomly from the national electoral register. Within the household the interviewer had to select the respondent among the household members between 16 and 69 years according to a fixed random number.

Hungary - H

The original sample consisted of 2.963 persons. They were selected by cluster sampling. The first step was to select the communities and to determine the number of persons to be asked to each settling. This first step was made in a way so as to obtain a sample which displays the same means and standard deviations on a number of variables concerning to the social, demographic, economic and geographic characteristics of the community as the Hungarian adult population. Data about the characteristics of the communities were taken from the 1980 census.

At second step random samples were taken from the adult population of each selected communities. The list of persons (and their addresses) were provided by the Population Register Bureau.

2.833 persons in this original sample were already interviewed twice in 1986. This might be the reason for the fact, that the proportion of dropouts in this survey (11.4 % of the original sample) were somehow greater than it is usual in Hungary. Below, you can see the proportion of the different causes of the interview's failures:

Failure of the interview is due to the fact, that	n	%
 Respondent was unable to answer (because of illness or having been drunken) 	25	7.4
Respondent rejected being interviewed	118	35.0
 Respondent did not live at home temporarily 	77	22.7
Respondent moved to a new flat or house (new address unknown)	37	10.9
5. Address was wrong	7	2.1
6. Respondent died	30	8.8
 Somebody else from the family of the respondent was already asked 	1	0.3
8. Other answers	44	13.0
	339	100.0

Fieldwork, Data collection

The questioning of the ISSP 1987 module took place in April and May 1987.

As this survey was linked with the earlier data survey in 1986, we did not question certain basic data and therefore there was no possibility to use supplementary addresses. Thus, a reduction of a certain extent took place in the sample and the element number of the representative sample of 3.000 became n=2.606.

Poland - PL

The ISSP-date should be referred to as the part of the Survey "Social Structure II" carried out under the auspices of the Institute of Philosophy and Sociology of the Polish Academy of Sciences (in Warsaw) by the Inter-Institute Research Team "Social Structure". (Kazimierz M./ Slomczynski (head) et al.)

The Sampling frame

In both 'Social Structure I' and 'Social Structure II', the sample was selected based on a sampling frame developed by the Public Opinion Research Center (Centrum Badania Opinii Spooecznej - CBOS). CBOS's sampling frame - called ANLUD - was created in 1986 to select probability samples for some of CBOS's own surveys. The organization of the sampling frame was based on a geographical division of the country developed by the Central Statistical Office for the census. The basic units of these divisions are census districts, which correspond to settlements of people. In general, districts include from less than twenty to several hundred persons.

The sampling was done in two stages. In the first one the population was divided into 196 strata. In each of the 49 voivodships four strata were distinguished according to the size of locality of residence, utilizing the division into villages, small towns, medium-sized towns, and big towns. Next, the number of persons in each stratum was computed, and this enabled the reqired number of census districts to be established. Districts were selected within various strata separately and independently. A total of 815 census districts were selected.

The second stage of sampling involved selecting households from each census district, whose members aged 12 and over would be included in the sampling frame (Social Structure I).

The Sample

Since the range of problems examined in the survey 'Social Structure II' was extensive, it referred to the adult population of Poland limited only by the criterion of age. The years of birth were the same for men and women, that is 1922-1966, which resulted in respondents aged 21-65 in 1987. A population thus defined can be treated as generally equivalent to the adult population of Poland, the youngest (18-20) and the oldest (over 65) excluded. In the adult population, these excluded categories amounted in the mid-1980's to 6 and 14 per cent, respectively. The reasons for not including persons aged 18-20 were theoretical, methodological, and practical.

The Sample size and response rate

5935 interviews (3 versions of the questionnaire x, y, z) were collected. Out of them 5854 treated now as analyzable. Out of these 5854 cases only 3943 cases (x, z version) are integrated into the ISSP-datafile, because 1911 cases (y-version) have no references to the ISSP-part, but only references to the demographic part of the survey.

Explanation

- <1> A variable (and reference) number have been assigned to each item in the study. In the present codebook which documents the archived data set, these numbers are identical. Should the data set be subsetted or rearranged the variable numbers might change to reflect the order of the new data set while the reference numbers would remain unchanged to provide a link to the archived data set.
- <2> Indicates the abbreviated (24 character maximum) variable label used within OSIRIS or SPSS system files.
- "Location" indicates the starting position of the variable when the dataset is stored in the OSIRIS format. "Width" describes the number of positions of the variable.
- <4> "MD" indicates the designation of the missing data. MD1 indicates an explicit defined single value. MD2 designates a single value or a value range, i.e. all values equal or greater than this value have been declared missing. Although these categories are defined as missing data categories, this does not mean that the user should not or cannot use these codes if so desired.
- <5> If a varibale contains implied decimals, the message "Dec.places: xx" appears here, where xx is the number of decimal places.
- <6> Indicates the full question text taken from the British questionnaire. Wherever possible the original sequence of questions has been retained, although some changes were necessary to integrate the different national questionnaires.
- <7> Indicates commentaries and explanations added during the processing of the study. < > within question or answer texts may indicate whether the questionnaire in a particular country is deviating from the general format.
- <8> Indicates the code value for the single answer category.
- <9> Indicates the textual definition of the codes. Abbreviations commonly used are DK (don't know), NA (no answer), Can't choose, Not applicable and Not available.
- <10> Indicates percentaged frequencies by country. This form is used whenever code categories have the same meaning for all countries. Column percentages are based only on "valid cases". Missing data values were excluded from percentages.

Note 0004

Size and type of the place of residence. This Note refers to $\ensuremath{\text{V84}}$

West Germany

Instead of the political administrative units, which describe only incomplete the type of community where the respondent lives, the classification of the size of communities (from Boustedt) is used. Independent of the political administrative units, the real type of settlement in the surrounding place of residence is decisive for the classification.

- 10 Open country within larger civil divisions, e.g. township, division

Remarks:

- A suburb is defined as any incorporated area or unincorporated aarea of 1.000+ (or listed as such in the U.S. Census PC (1)-A books) within the boundaries of an SMSA but not within the limits of a central city of the SMSA. Some SMSAs have more than one central city, e.g., Minneapolis-St. Paul. In these cases, both cities are coded as central cities.
- (b) If such an instance were to arise, a city of 50.000 or over which is not part of an SMSA would be coded '07'.
- Unincorporated areas of over 2.499 are treated as incorporated areas of the same size. Unincorporated areas under 1.000 are not listed by the Census and are treated here as part of the next larger civil division, usually the township.

Hungary

- V74 Current employment status:
 - (1) During the survey, there was practically no employment in Hungary, therefore this category is missing.
 - (2) This code partly contains the family members of those engaged in agricultural cooperatives, who help, on an average of less than eight hours daily, other members of the family who are full-time engaged in agricultural activities. This code also contains family members of private farmers, artisans and small tradesmen, who help part-time. In addition to the status of part-time helping family-member part-time employment (4 or 6 hours daily) also exists in Hungary, but the related question was not included in our questionnaire.
 - (2) Active earners (not helping family members)
 - (8) Contains women who are regularly employed, but at present are staying with their small children on maternity leave or receive maternity nursing grant. (Maternity nursing grant can be received by every working mother up to the age of 1 of their child, the sum of this is 75 per cent of the income of the mother before the birth of the baby. Child benefit can be received by the mother up to the age of 3 of her child, the sum of 1.000.- forint.) This code also contains retired persons (with old age pension, disablement or widow's pensions), other inactive persons, dependents (students, etc.) and housewives.
- V75 The variable contains the four-digit categories of the International Standard Classification of Occupations (ISCO). See note 1.

For those, who have no mention at the present occupation the first occupation is integrated.

13005. is recoded to (999999) not classifiable

- V76 See note 2.
- V77 In the case of self employment in the private sector (craftsmen, tradesmen, farmers or intellectual free-lance) the paid employee does not equal the helping family member appearing in the code 2 of the variable current employment status (V74), because the latter is not paid a salary.

- V78 Code 1 of the variable includes those who supervise other/s even if they only have one subordinate. Those who have no subordinates are in Code 2 and the nonactive earners (pensioners, dependents or persons on childcare leave) are in Code 0. Those who are in the private sector in V77 and have paid subordinates are also included in Code 1.
- V79 Code 2 contains craftsmen working in their own workshop, tradesmen with shop, farmers cultivating there own land, intellectual free-lancers and their part-time helping family members; all other active earners can be found in Code 1.
- V80 The variable distinguishes 19 major administrative units counties of Hungary plus Budapest, the capital (Code 1).
- 'Age' is recoded only for crosstabulation in the codebook. The dataset contains this variable described as above.
 - 19. 19 years
 - 91. 91 years
- V84 (1): Residents of Budapest and the 5 major towns of the country (Miskolc, Szeged, Debrecen, Pecs and Gyor).
 - (2): Residents of all of the other minor towns
 - (3): Residents of large and small villages
- In the construction of the variable concerning marital status, the group of married couples (Code 1) covers according to our interpretation those who are legally married and declared themselves presently cohabiting and also those singles who live with their common law spouses; furthermore people who are separated, but not legally divorced, but live with common lay spouses; divorced and widowed persons who are cohabiting with a partner of the other sex.

 The other codes according to the sense are the following: single living widowed persons (Code 2), single living divorced persons (Code 3), married but separated people (Code 4) and singles without any cohabiting partner (Code 5).
- V87, The number of completed school grades, independently, V89 of whether it means completed schooling or not. If the respondent completed more than one school of the same type (e.g. two universities), both are included.
 - (7) Up to 7 years: incomplete primary
 - (8) 8 years : complete compulsory school
 - (11) 11 years : complete compulsory school and skilled workers' training school
 - (12) 12 years : completed secondary school
 - (13) More than 12: university

- V88, (1) Includes those who did not attend any type of V90 school.
 - (2) Includes those who have attended maximum 7 grades.
 - (3) Completed compulsory 8 grade primary school, and those who did not complete their secondary school studies.
 - (4) After the 8 grade primary school a skilled worker's certificate can be aquired in two or three years. This category contains those respondents who aquired a qualification in this way in the skilled workers' training school.
 - (5) Both types of secondary schools, which are completed with matriculation: vocational secondary school and grammar school (gymnasium), four grades after the general school. Those with such qualification are included in this category as well as those who interrupted their high level education.
 - (7) Graduates of high level institutes: high school college or university.
- V91 (1) Those who live in their own apartment or house, or are members of the owner's family.
 - (2) Who live in state owned apartments or houses, or them from other owners (e.g. private person), or are members of the renter's family.
 - (3) Who are living in some institution (e.g. workers' hostel, nursing home or old people's home).
 - (4) Lodgers, bed renters
 - (5) Others
- V92 Wages and salary pension, benefits from the second economy (e.g. byline, household, plot, rental of real estate, etc.) social benefits (family allowance, child care grant, scholarship, etc.)
- V93 Classified variable, deducted from V92
- V94 We added to the monthly earning which includes from the job, thus also monthly overtime earning income derived from household plot production, bylines, typs, gratuities and bonuses. The code (0) indicates the group of those who do not carry out earning activity.
- V95 Classified variable, deducted from V94

V98 Religion
The question referred to the religion in which the respondents was baptised or registered. The Roman Catholic, Presbyterian, Lutheran, and Jewish are not aggregated categories. Code 90 gathered those belong to the Uniterian, Greek Orthodox and Free Church.

- V101 (1) Whose spouse is an active earner (2) Housewives, temporarily non-working mothers on child care grant, pensioners
- V104 The 4 digit ISCO category of the father's occupation. The question referred to the respondent's 14 years of age. In the case of those fathers who no longer work at that time their last occupation was indicated. (0): fathers who never worked or about the respondent could not provide information.

V87,V89 Years of schooling V88,V90 Education in categories

As to the number of years of schooling necessary for each of the seven categories, the following remark is in order.
Primary education starts at the age of four and takes eight years.
Extended education takes four years.
Secondary education takes five or six years.
All kinds of vocational training and the university take on the whole about four years.

There are, however, many exceptions of this rule of thumb. Until recently 'Kindergarden' was not integrated in primary education and formal education started at six. A better way of tackling this problem is perhaps to use a crossing between 'education in categories' and 'education in years'. The '87 data show the following results:

(Source: Dr. Jos Becker, Sociaal en Culturaal Planbureau)

Level	Years
 (1) Primary (2) Primary and vocational training (3) Extended (4) Extended and voacational training (5) Secondary (6) Secondary and vocational training (7) University 	7.2 10.0 10.6 12.1 13.2 14.6 18.0
